

Please note that a pedigree does not include any marriage information, any daughters' information, or any details on wives. It is intended to allow a researcher to identify a family of interest. It is NOT intended to provide all the information that is known on a family. While connections of the lines are probably correct due to the Y-DNA matches, most of the lines themselves are submitted by participants and there may be errors or omissions. Use them as guidepost and always do your own research to confirm your family line. Please email if you see anything that needs correcting, or if any information on the site is copyrighted or misattributed information, and it will be fixed, credited, or removed immediately.

We will list all Families, by Earliest Ancestor and Line Leader who wish to be listed. We also hope to eventually locate descendants of each family and to arrange their participation in the DNA project. Participation in the DNA Project is not a requirement for listing on this page, but we will indicate families who have a Harrison male representing them in the DNA Project. We invite you to join the project. You'll need to either be a male Harrison, or have a father, brother, uncle, or cousin who can be tested for you. It's easy, just a cotton swab on the inside of your cheek.

Not Yet Tested English and Irish Harrison Family Lines

These lines represent English and Irish Harrison families from whom many Harrisons around the world are descended. While many of these lines are well documented, you are encouraged in the strongest possible manner to carefully document your own Harrison lines to ensure that a) these lines are correct and b) that you are really connected to them. Please e-mail John Harrison at dna@jhamedia.com with any corrections. As we get more Harrisons' DNA tested, we will be able to move these lines to the top of the page where our DNA confirmed lines reside, and you will be able to see if your own DNA results match them.

Berkshire, England Harrison Families

Harrison of Reading, Berkshire

This family is listed in the Visitations of Berkshire, p. 141, and refers to the Visitation of London, 1634-5. The arms for this family are "Granted to Gilbert Haryson alias Hardegson descended from a family of that surname in the Duchy of Brunswick." The arms shown have an anchor in the left field, and a standing lion facing left in the right. The crest has a ducal coronet with four feathers or leaves coming from it.

Derby, England Harrison Families

This family is found in Longstaffe's Heraldic Visitation of the Northern Counties in 1530, published in 1863, which contains other information up into the 1600s on northern Harrison families and can be downloaded from <http://books.google.com>. It discusses the family and their arms. The arms are important here since they are quartered with Ninessor. The description is as follows: "Quarterly in the first, for Harrison, Gules, an eagle displayed, a chief gold; in the second for Ninessor, Sables, a cheveron between three hands silver, erased gules, and so quarterly: And to the crest upon the helm, on a wreath gold and gules, a broken pillar gold, about the same a serpent winding proper; mantled gules, doubled silver." This family is clearly part of the Stephen Harrison of Westmorland, England line.

Durham, England Harrison Families

The Harrisons of Barnard Castle, Durham

The line of Rowland Harrison is listed in the Visitations of London, 1633, 1634, 1635 as cited in J. Houston Harrison's Settlers by the Long Grey Trail (1935). While the family was also residing in London in the 1630's, its origins in Durham, make it another northern family. Harrison also notes that the arms of the Robert Harrison born about 1600 (below) are similar to the Harrisons of Gobion's Manor (see line of Stephen Harrison of Westmorland, England).

Lancashire, England Harrison Families

The Visitation of London, 1634 shows two Harrison families living in London with roots in Lancaster. The arms are very similar. The first family is the line of Michael Harrison p. 353. His arms include four silver downward pointing arrowheads arranged in a cross pattern on an azure cross. The crest above has a right hand holding an arrow pointing downward to the left. The founder of this line, Michael Harrison, lived in Kendal, Westmorland, which was also the home of the line of Stephen Harrison of Westmorland (whose arms were very different from the ones of this family).

Michael Harrison b. c1550 Lancashire, res. Kendal, Westmorland

Christopher Harrison b. c1575, res. London 1634, m. Elizabeth Cook

Edmund Harrison b. 1602 Bristol, res. London 1634, m. Jane Godfrey

Godfrey Harrison b. abt 1625

The second family, that of Thomas Harrison of Adcliff, Lancashire, has almost identical arms that have been halved. On the left are the four arrowheads on a cross, on the right are three fleur de lei with a crescent moon on an angled stripe. The same crest of a right hand holding an arrow appears on these arms, too. Anne, the daughter of Sir John Harrison and Margaret Fenshaw (Fanshawe) wrote her memoirs which are in the British Library. He supported the Royalist side in the English Civil War. https://web.warwick.ac.uk/english/perdita/html/ms_BLA41161.htm The History of Parliament: The House of Commons 1604-1629, ed. Andrew Thrush and John P. Ferris, 2010, states that he was probably related to the Lancashire Harrisons who ran a clothing business at the Old Exchange, and that he received three shares in the Virginia Company, and was, almost certainly a brother of George Harrison, a Virginia Colonist.

Westmorland, England Harrison Families

This lineage is from the Visitations of London, 1633, 1634, 1635 as cited in J. Houston Harrison's Settlers by the Long Grey Trail (1935). While the family was residing in Braintford (Brentford), London in the 1630's, its origins in Kendal, Westmorland, make it another northern Harrison family. Kendal is about 30 miles south of Greystoke, Cumberland, and is also not far from Bishop Auckland, Durham, and Yorkshire, where several English Harrison families had an ancestral home. DNA testing of descendants of these lines can confirm whether there is a relationship between these families. Part of this family also moved from Westmorland to Northamptonshire, where it became the line of Gobion's Manor, Northampton. The arms of Harrison of Gobion's Manor are listed in the Visitation of Northamptonshire, 1618, p. 98 as: "Quarterly-1 and 4, Gules, an eagle displayed and a chief Or; 2 and 3, Sable, a chevron Ermine between three clenched dexter hands Argent erased Gules. Crest: a snake vertical entwined round a broken column Or."

The John "Longitude" Harrison Line

Clockmaker John Harrison (1693-1776) invented the marine chronometer, which allowed sailors to accurately determine their position at sea. Wikipedia states that he ranked 39th in the BBC's 2002 poll of the 100 Greatest Britons. His line is from Humphrey Quill's John Harrison: The Man Who Found Longitude (1966).

The Harrisons of Skipton, Yorkshire

The following families are compiled based on various Yorkshire genealogies. They are at times very confusing to follow as it often not clear which John, Edward, or Joseph is being written about! Any clarification of these lines would be much appreciated, and it would be great have some male Harrison descendants of these families test so we can see if they connect to other known Harrison lines.

Charleville, County Cork, Ireland Harrison Family

The line of Richard Harrison of England was written by Charles Lynegar of Trinity College, Dublin, and gives the ancestors of William Harrison of Castle Harrison, Charleville, Co. Cork, Ireland. This information is from Ruth Andrews. She notes that the genealogy states that Richard, Lord Harrison, came to England in 1056, and was descended from Charles, junior son of Charles, Duke of Habspruch, according to a pedigree from Sir Thomas Hawley, King at Arms, during the reign of Henry VIII. This pedigree is that of the aforementioned, "Harrisons of the North," who originally arrived in Cumberland, England in 1056, but go back to Tongres, a principality in what is now northeast Belgium, in 876.
